

“ LED (Light Emitting Diode)

Is a semiconductor device that emits visible light when an electric current passes through it. Benefits of LEDs include: low power requirement, high efficiency and long life

In Bath new LED street lighting was trialed in order to reduce energy usage and costs in comparison with conventional street lighting arrangements

The new design led to a decrease in energy consumption for lighting (-38%)