CITIES-TO-CITIES EXCHANGE: URBAN DISTRIBUTION OF GOODS

Promoting efficient freight distribution solutions

Efficient distribution of goods is vital to the economic development, the environment and the liveability of city centres. Regulating the distribution of goods and requiring a better coordination of goods distribution

Cities in CIVITAS CATALIST have several years of experience of innovative actions in order to increase the efficiency and sustainability of urban distribution of goods.

Cooperation with Take-up-cities

CATALIST cities with previous experience from CIVITAS I and II should inspire “take-up-cities” interested in the CIVITAS themes

- Site visits
- Study tours
- City-to-city exchanges around practical examples

Aim of today's workshop

- Discussion about the role of the cities regarding urban goods
- Can cities collaborate to raise the issue of urban freight on local, regional, national and European transport (political) agenda?
- Follow up on what has happened with some freight and logistics projects that were carried out within CIVITAS I & II
- Give take-up cities a better understanding of the CIVITAS CATALIST project (and the preceding CIVITAS measures)
- Ideas for future concrete cooperation between cities – how and between who?
- Ensure a good transfer of knowledge from the participants of the POLIS network (and the goods projects SUGAR, SMARTFREIGHT, FREILOT), and the CIVITAS CATALIST and take up cities

Expected outcome

- Input from participants for future cooperation and exchange of experience between the cities
- concrete suggestion for city-to-city exchange or site visits within topics and fields identified during the meeting
- topic for next Urban goods thematic working group (spring 2011)

Thank you!
